ABSTRACT

This guide, designed to support language arts programs in teaching English to speakers of other languages and in teaching standard English as a second dialect, is for use by teachers of language-handicapped children at the kindergarten level. The 135 half hour lessons, covering one year's work, may be used with mixed groups since the basic sentence structures are presented through Kindergarten-like activities and geared to the children's conceptual and physical needs. Sentence patterns and vocabulary to be introduced or reviewed in each lesson are listed at the top of each lesson. The lessons contain a heading, brief description paragraph, example dialogues, and a listing of required audio-visual materials. A Spanish interference and dialect interference sheet and a technique for teaching pattern practice are included. (RL)

Preface to the ACTFL Edition

Since its organization the American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages (ACTFL) has been interested in and concerned with the education of Americans for whom English is not the mother tongue. This interest and concern have led ACTFL to study several instructional programs in this area.

One set of materials which came to our attention is the Michigan Oral Language Series produced under the direction of Kalph Robinett and Richard Benjamin with funds provided by the Michigan Department of Education (E.S.E.A. Title I-Wigrant) and the Foreign Language Innovative Curricula Studies (E.S.E.A. Title III). The series consists of structured oral language lessons for use with four, five, and six year old children who need to learn English as a second language or standard English as a second dialect; the lessons are accompanied by evaluation and teacher training materials.

The series gives the teacher a detailed sequence of oral language activities which are not only linguistically controlled but also emphasize and reinforce the conceptual development of the child.

ACTFL has made these materials available for several reasons:

- 1. So that you can see what one project has been able to produce with competent staff.
- 2. So that you will appreciate—if you do not already—what materials development means.
- 3. So that you can use these materials for training personnel in your institution.
- 4. So that you may consider adapting or adopting them—in whole or in part—for your program.

The series consists of six components:

- 1. Bilingual Conceptual Development Guide--Preschool
- 2. English Guide--Kindergarten
- 3. Spanish Guide--Kindergarten
- 4. Interdisciplinary Oral Language Guide--Primary One
- 5. Michigan Oral Language Productive Tests
- 6. Developing Language Curricula: Programed Exercises for Teachers

If you wish to order single or multiple copies of these texts please consult the catalogue published by ACTFL.

This ACTFL Project has been made possible by CONPASS (Consortium of Professional Associations for Study of Special Teacher Improvement Programs), under a grant from the U.S. Office of Education, and it is intended to extend the work of CONPASS initiated at its conference in Grove Park, North Carolina on 10-15 June 1969. ACTFL extends its appreciation to CONPASS for the grant which makes the distribution of these materials possible and to the staff of FLICS and the Migrant Worker Program for their willingness to share the fruits of their work.

INTRODUCTION

The ESOL-SESD Guide was prepared for teachers of language handicapped children at the kindergarten level. The lessons are designed to support language arts programs in teaching English to speakers of other languages (ESOL), and in teaching standard English as a second dialect (SESD).

A Spanish Interference and a Dialect Interference sheet are included as part of this Guide, to help identify some areas of language interference.

Children whose native language is not English, and children who speak nonstandard dialects of English both need ordered, intensive practice of basic sentence patterns and sounds of English. Since a haphazard approach to teaching English does not often produce the desired results, the time devoted to learning a second language must be efficiently spent in order to equip these children to function linguistically in a school situation in which standard English is the medium of instruction. The Guide can be used with mixed groups since the basic sentence structures are presented through kindergarten-like activities and geared to their conceptual and physical needs.

In keeping with the insights gained through research in the field of linguistics, language teaching today emphasizes oral speech development. Speech abilities are basic to the subsequent development of reading and writing skills. The oral approach recommended by linguists involves listening and speaking. The children hear the language patterns modeled by the teacher and then repeat what has been said. When the control of the pattern has become automatic through many oral repetitions, the children use the language in meaningful situations.

A Language Learning Practice sheet, included in this Guide, attempts to illustrate the teaching technique of pattern practice, a technique generally accepted and used with great success in foreign language teaching. Pattern drills are not mere mimicry or repetition. The initial level consists of a teacher-modeled linguistic structure. The second level involves conscious choice with the correct response elicited by a cue which the teacher gives. When the child reaches level three, he is then expected to automatically choose an appropriate response to a particular situation.

The ESOL-SESD Guide has been planned to span a year's work. However, the time required to complete the Guide may vary depending on the maturation level of the children and the time devoted to the lessons.

Each lesson consists of several activities. Each activity includes a heading, a brief descriptive paragraph and usually an example dialogue. The number of activities may vary at one "sitting." They may all be taught during one language period, or at different times of the same day. The activities may need to be spread over two or more days.

Since children are introduced to sentence patterns and vocabulary systematically and through the use of minimal increments, and one lesson is built on the preceding one, the lessons should be taught in order.

Sentence patterns, the primary concern in teaching language, and vocabulary to be introduced or reviewed are listed at the top of each lesson under the titles, Linguistic Focus: New and Linguistic Focus: Review. The section next to it, labeled Materials, lists the audiovisuals needed to facilitate teaching. Reference is made there to appropriate pictures, color chips and puppets found in the Peabody Language Development Kit, Level #1. However, any suitable pictures, puppets and other visual aids you prefer may be used.

Throughout the Guide, sentence patterns presented without any parentheses, for example, "What's your name?" means that the children will practice only that form. However, underlined parentheses, for example, "The (boy)'s (work)ing.," indicate substitutions will be made in those slots with other familiar or new vocabulary items, for example, "The (girl)'s (play)ing." In some instances, parentheses of two kinds will appear in one sentence pattern, for example, "(These) are (zoc, farm) animals." In the first parentheses, the words "Those" or "They" can be substituted for (These). In the second parentheses, only the two words "zoo" and "farm" are used.

The expressions "guide," "help" and "with the teacher's help" indicate the need for the teacher to model the pattern for the children.

The ESOL-SESD Guide attempts to equip children with a new language in addition to their first language. They are not discouraged from using their native language and in no way is it implied that it is inferior. Their second language will simply be another tool, another more generally accepted dialect, which will enable them to be mobile in any career and segment of society.

It is recommended that teachers follow the linguistic sequence presented in the Guide. However, as with all materials, adaptations are sometimes necessary to meet the needs of particular groups. If children already know a sentence pattern, there is no need to teach it. If more relevant or additional vocabulary is required, then by all means it should be taught along with the appropriate linguistic patterns. Of course, there is ample opportunity and need for teachers to motivate and encourage children, and to keep the pace stimulating and brisk.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wish to thank Elizabeth Brickman and Elaine Sims who have contributed special talents to the production of the ESOL-SESD Guide. I am also grateful for information and materials made available to me by friends and former colleagues. In addition, my sincere thanks are due to the many teachers and persons who took the time to evaluate the Guide in its preliminary stages.

I also feel indebted to three wonderful secretaries, Maria Castaneda, Isabel Rodriguez and Marlene Kurtz.

To Henry Pascual, special thanks for his interest, advice and valuable suggestions.

For the inspiration and guidance I have received from Ralph F. Robinett, director of the Bilingual Curriculum Development program, I want to express my warm appreciation and gratitude.

Teacher: Good morning.
Group 1: Good morning.

Teacher: Good morning. Group 2: Good morning.

Continue the practice with other groups and individuals. Then call on pairs of volunteers to greet each other.

MEETING FLICK

Present a hand puppet to the class, greet him, and have him return the greeting. Ask the puppet his name. He responds with a short answer, "Flick." Then let him ask you your name. Reply with a short answer.

(holding up a hand puppet T: and talking to him) Good morning.

HP: (looking at the teacher) Good morning.

T: What's your name?

HP: Flick. !!hat's your name?

T: (Mrs. Dunn).

Tell the class that Flick is going to ask individual pupils their names. Guide them to respond with a short answer.

(addressing a girl) F1: !hat's your name?

P1: (Laura).

(addressing a boy) Hhat's your name?

(Tony). P2:

STOP THE CIRCLE

Have a group join hands and walk around in a circle. Choose a volunteer to stand inside the circle with you and Flick. Explain to the group that when the pupil in the middle taps one of them, they must stop walking. Then the person tapped answers Flick's question.

P]: (inside the circle, tapping a pupil who is walking)

(after the circle stops) Mhat's your name?

(Jerry). P2: (the circle begins to walk again)

After all of the pupils in the circle have been tapped, choose other groups, one at a time, to form circles and continue the activity.

GOODBYE, FLICK

Explain that it is time to put Flick away. Say, "Goodbye" and have him respond. Then Flick says, "Goodbye" to the class. After they reply, "Goodbye, Flick," call on individuals to exchange goodbyes with him.

COUNT AND DRAW

Display a set of ten felt cutouts. Choose a pupil, then call out a number at random from one to eight. Guide him to place that many cutouts on the flannel board. Then as he points to each, have the class count them. Repeat the activity with other numbers, calling on groups and individuals to count. End with eight cutouts on the flannel board.

NUMBERS - MINE, TEN

Add one more cutout, then another, to the set on the flannel board, modeling the new number each time.

T: (adding a cutout)

Familiar objects

TOUCH AND TELL

Blindfold pupils, one at a time, and place two groups of objects in front of them, one group of familiar big objects and one group of their small counterparts. Place the pupil's hand on one group and then the other, and question him.

T: Are these (chairs) big or little?

P1: They're (big).

FAT AND THIN

Stuff Flick, making him as fat as possible. Pin Flock's folds behind her, so she is very thin. Hold up Flick and ask if he is fat or thin. Do the same with Flock.

Is this puppet fat or thin?

It's (fat). C: It's (fat).

Hold the puppets up alternately, having the class, groups, then individuals call out fat or thin, whichever is appropriate.

FUN WITH SOUNDS

Show the children that the tongue sticks out between the teeth for the th sound, and not for the t sound. Say the following words and have the pupils repeat each pair after you.

DESCRIPTION

Have two groups face each other. Let pupils from each take turns, asking and answering questions about familiar objects, using the size and shape adjectives learned.

P1: (pointing to book)
Is this book (fat) or (thin)?

P2: It's (fat).

SQUARE AND ROUND

Hold up a picture of a square, outline the shape with your finger and say, "It's square." Have the pupils repeat and trace the shape in the air. [the same with the picture of a circle and say, "It's round." After several repetitions of both concepts, divide the class into two groups. Have one group describe the shape while the other group traces it in the air. Continue the same activity with pairs of individuals.

FOLLOW THE LEADER

Play a game of Follow the Leader, with you as the leader. Have five pupils follow you at a time, touching or pointing as you do, and together saying what you say. Model the new statement, "(These, Those) (book)s are (little)." Let other groups continue with a pupil as leader. When you call "Change" the next in line becomes the leader.

FUN WITH SOUNDS

Have pupils repeat the following words after you. Make sure that their initial /s/ sound is not preceded by an extra syllable ("eschool").

GAME TIME

Have the class play a game in which a pupil points to a set of square objects and says, "Those (baskets) are square," or touches a set of round objects and says, "These (balloons) are round."
The pupil chooses the next player.

LONG - SHCRT

Hold two pencils in your hand, so their length can't be seen. Ask a pupil to take one and hold it up, so the class can see it. Then say, "It's (long)." After another pupil takes the other pencil from your hand, model the appropriate statement and have the class repeat. Draw sticks on the board, then ask the class, groups and individuals to tell you whether each new stick is long or short. Direct individuals to draw long or short sticks on the board and tell their size.

FLICK AND FLOCK

Ask the class to be Flick, as a pupil manipulates the puppet. Take the part of Flock, asking questions about objects in the room, such as Are (these, those) (pencils) (long)? Guide Flick to answer, "Yes, they are." or "No, they "re not."

MORE YES AND NO

Have a pupil perform an action choosing to do it fast or slowly. By asking Is (Ed) (runn)ing (fast)?, have the class decide the action's speed. Guide the class to respond.

T: Is (Ed) (hopp)ing slowly?
C: No, (Ed)'s not (hopp)ing slowly.
(He)'s (hopp)ing fast.

THE ANSHER MAN

Have Flick explain that he is the Answer Man since he knows lots of answers but no questions. He wishes the class would give him some questions for his answers. The answers will be statements about action pictures he holds up.

color. As a pupil places red on the traffic light, ask what it means. Continue in the same manner with yellow and green.

T: What does (red) mean?
C: (with the teacher's help)
(Red) means (STOP).

Teach the poem below, using a flannel board figure to illustrate stop, wait and cross.

Red light, red light, what do you say?
"I say STOP, and stop right away!"
Yellow light, yellow light, what do you mean?
"I mean WAIT, 'till the light is green."
Green light, green light, what do you say?
"I say CROSS, first look each way."
Thank you, thank you, red, yellow, green,
Now I know what the traffic light means.

TELL US WHY

Outline a street crossing on the floor with chalk. Using a flannel traffic light as a signal, ask volunteers, one at a time, to go to the "corner." Turn on the signal and tell the pupil to act accordingly and say what he is doing.

T: What are you doing (Joe)? P1: I'm (cross)ing.

Then turn to the class and elicit the reason for (Joe)'s action.

T: Why is (Joe) (cross)ing?
C: Because (green) means (cross).

SAFETY PATROL

Ask one boy to be Flick, one to be a Safety Patrol Boy, and one to operate the flannel traffic light. Have the Patrol Boy stand on the corner of a street which has been chalked on the floor, and help Flick obey the traffic signals. As Flick and the Patrol Boy wait, stop, or cross the street, guide the class to ask Flick what he is doing and why. Choose three new players to perform similar actions at the "street corner."

C: (as Flick crosses the street) What are you doing, Flick?

P1: I'm crossing.

T: !hy are you crossing?

P1: Because green means cross.

TELL THE TRUTH

While the class close their eyes, show a pupil an action picture. Place that picture and four others face down. Pictures of a family, father, mother, a boy, a girl, a baby sleeping, eating, etc.

LET'S PRETEND

Choose five pupils. Tell each to play, march, hide, or pretend to sleep or eat. As these actions are going on simultaneously, ask, "Who's (hid)ing?" Guide the (hid)ing pupil to raise his hand and say, "I am." Continue until all the pupils have had a turn to reply. Then choose five new pupils.

THIS AND THAT

Have two groups of pupils sit facing each other. Give one group a picture of a dog, and the other a picture of a cat. Guide each group to identify the animal it has and the one held by the opposite group.

G1: This is a (dog) and that's a (cat).
G2: This is a (cat) and Continue, calling on pairs of pupils to identify pictures of a dog, a cat, and a bird.

NOW (HE)'S (BARK)ING.

Show a picture of a dog sitting and elicit from the class what he's doing. After the response is given, "bark" and guide the class to describe the dog's action now. Develop cat-meow and bird-sing in the same manner.

T: What's the dog doing?

C: (He)'s sitting.

T: (barking)

Now what's the dog doing?

C: Now (he)'s barking.

TELL WHAT YOU SEE

P1: (holding a picture of a girl sleeping)
This girl's sleeping.

P2: (pointing to a picture of a family eating)
That family's eating.

ANIMAL FUN

Have two players, with animal pictures pinned to their backs, stand face to face in the center of a seated circle. Each player tries to see the other's picture without letting the opponent see his. The first player to do so calls out the name of the animal and makes the appropriate sound. Then he chooses two new players.

P2: I'm (playing house).
P1: (referring to all the players) What are you playing?

G: We're (playing house).

RHYME TIME

Teach the following verse. Use four construction paper birds, each attached to a straw, to emphasize the concepts high and low. As the class repeats the verse, choose two pupils to manipulate the birds.

Four little birds are flying in the sky, Two are low and two are high, One little bird sits in a tree. Now up in the sky there are only three.

HIGH - LOW

Play a high note, then a low note on the piano. Elicit from the class which is the high note and which is the low note, guiding them to say, "It's (high)." Continue at the piano, guiding the pupils to stretch when they hear high notes and squat when they hear low notes. Tell the pupils to slowly stand from a squatting position as you go up the scale, then return gradually to a squat as you go down the scale.

TELL WHAT YOU SEE

Have the class seated in a circle with cars and familiar objects in the center. Call on three pupils at a time and whisper a direction to each to pick up, carry and put down one of the objects. As they do so, say, "Stop!" and have them "freeze." Guide a leader to ask individuals what each is doing.

Pl: (with the teacher's help) What's (Olga) doing?

P2: (She)'s carrying the (truck).

THO LEADERS

Have the pupils remain in a circle. Choose two leaders. The first one calls on a pupil or a pair of pupils to pick up, carry or put down one of the familiar objects, calling it by name. The other leader repeats the direction, substituting it for the name of the object.

P1: (Tom), pick up the (truck).
P2: (with the teacher's help)

WHO HAS THE BALL?

Choose a pupil to leave the room while another pupil hides under your desk, taking with him one of the objects which you have put on a table. When the pupil returns, he must notice which of the cbjects is missing, and ask, "Who has the (ball)?" The pupil under the desk answers, "I do," disguising his voice. This exchange may be repeated until the identity of the hidden pupil is guessed correctly.

Pl: (noticing the missing book)
Who has the book?

P2: (disguising his voice)
I do.

P1: (John) has the book. (John emerges)

I HAVE FIVE BOOKS.

Assign number one to a pupil and have him hold one familiar object. Call on four more pupils, assigning each a number through five. Have each hold an appropriate number of objects and line up. Guide groups and individuals to point to a pupil in line, saying what he has. Then guide the pupil in line to repeat what he has. Continue until each pupil has had a turn.

C: (pointing to "number three")
He has three books.

P1: I have three books.

Continue in this way, choosing pairs of pupils, and assigning each pair a number in the line. Use the plural pronouns $\underline{\text{They}}$ and $\underline{\text{We}}$ in the place of $\underline{\text{He}}$ and $\underline{\text{I}}$.

ALL OR HALF

Use the flannel board and felt fruit to introduce half of and to review all of. Call on pupils to come and divide the fruit among them. Either give one pupil all of the fruit and the other none, or divide a small amount of fruit in half, indicating the one-to-one correspondence. Guide exchanges such as the following.

Pl: (pointing)

I have half of the fruit.

P2: (pointing)

PASTED - PAINTED COUNTED Introduce the regular past tense pronounced as a separate syllable, using the verbs paint, paste and count. Guide one group to say what they did in school (yesterday). Then have them ask Group 2 what they did. Use pictures as cues, or objects such as a paint brush, paste and numbers.

G1: (with the teacher's help) We (paint)ed in school (yesterday). What did you do?

G2: We (count)ed.

WHO DID (MARK) (PASTE) WITH? Choose four pairs of pupils. Give each pair a picture or an object to suggest painting, pasting, counting and collecting. Divide the rest of the class into two groups and guide them to take turns questioning each other about what each pair did together. Finally, call out a few pupil's names. Guide the class to ask them who they performed their activity with.

G1: (referring to a pair holding some pens) Who did (Mark) collect pens with?

G2: (He) collected pens with (Al).

T: (Al).

C: It's a zebra.

Gl: Count the animals, (Jean).

P1: One, two, three, etc.

G2: How many animals did you count, (Jean)?

P1: I counted eight animals.

Put out additional pictures of each animal. Have individuals collect all the animals of one kind and say, "I collected (two) (zebras)."

POINTED

To demonstrate "pointing," have the class point to various animal pictures displayed. Then as one pupil closes his eyes, have another point to a specific picture. The first pupil opens his eyes and tries to guess which animal was pointed out. Continue with new pairs of pupils.

P1: (pointing out an elephant)

WE DO MANY THINGS

Give three questioners one picture each of a school, a store and a house. Help them take turns asking pupils what they "did" when they went to the place shown in their pictures. Use activity pictures or objects to guide the responses. Include sang songs, made (puppets), bought (cereal), gave (John) money, etc. Introduce slept, rode my bicycle and drank milk.

Pl: (holding a picture of a house) (Michael). What did you do when you went home?

P2: (with the teacher's help)
I (drank) (cocoa).

WHICH IS MORE?

Using real money, review the words cent(s), nickel and dime, and the expression (Three) pennies make (three cents). Introduce a dollar bill. Then help the class say which coin has more value and which has less value. Guide the replies.

T: (showing a nickel and a dime) Which is more, a nickel or a dime?

C: A dime is more.

Also elicit that ten pennies and a dime, and five pennies and a nickel are the same.

T: (showing appropriate cuins) Which is more, ten pennies or a dime?

C: They're the same.

NOW YOU SEE IT, NOW YOU DON'T
Place an object on a table for a few moments. Remove it, then help the class, groups and individuals say what was there. Guide groups in question-answer exchanges about the object. After practice on the singular, introduce the plural,
There were (puzzles) on the table,
and There were (balls) and (boxes) on the table. Ask individuals to handle objects and question pupils.

T: (takes a pen from the table)
There was a pen on the table.

C: There was a pen on the table.

G1: What was on the table?

G2: There was a pen on the table.

As a small group close their eyes, a pupil puts an object on the table, then removes it. He gives the group two clues, saying, There (wasn't) (a pen) on the table. The group members try to guess, There (was) (a ball) on the table.
